Premier Stewart Gives Address to a Large Audience at Theatre

Inner Church Forward Movement Receives Great Impetus From Stirring Addresses Delivered

Rev. Capt. R. Pearson Also Speaks

In opening the meeting held on Sunday afternoon in the theatre in the interests of the Inter-Church Forward Movement Wilson, addressing a real large audience explained the objects of the movement as being principally a great after war thank offering to God in the determination to make the world a better place and to advance in every legitimate way the coming of His Kingdom.

THE PREMIER'S ADDRESS

Premier Stewart, who was then called upon stated that he was so interested in the advantages to be derived by the whole world from the advancement of this movement that he had addressed gatherings in different parts of the province for the cause.

After expressing his pleasure at visiting Wainwright, he dealt in his usual capable and interesting manner with his subject and said that times are changing, and it was being not oly shown but proved that men having to do with public affairs were the men who should be in the work of the church. The war had brought many problems, and now was the awakening period of the people of the world. The inward voice had caused the offer of the sacrifices, and the influence had spread to all people in all lands of pre-war days. Life was now looked at from an entirely new angle, inasmuch as that we all desired now the very best obtainable—whether of the common necessities of life or of religion. Some people had doubted the sancness of some of the Forward Movement arguments, but it was fully proved that the old selfishness had melted away and today the underlying influences of these after war conditions had caused the trait of unselfishness to expand and grow. Full development that this movement must stretch out and intimately join together capital and labor. Religion or Christianity was the strongest flux for the welding together of all classes, and the Movement was thought to be the best and finest manner to spread this flux and thus force the compromise of the world and the church as a whole.

Suspicion was in all instance a great barrier among men and women and this would only be done away with through the observance of the principles of true Christianity. A time is coming when stocks would be more evenly and justly apportioned and high prices be reduced, and this would prove to be but another period of the readjustment being brought about by the Forward Movement. An ideal situation will not permit poverty or want in any land and they were striving for this ideal. It was a state that is beyond the individual; it must be on a community basis. Everybody has to be, in the bondest sense "his brother's keeper."

He believed in democracy, because it spread the gospel just as lavishly as anything else. The movement was also working for the reclamation of the young wrong-doer, and instead of allowing them to devel op into jailbirds it was extending the helping hand n every way.

He cited the fact there was in this a lethargy on the part of the fathers of families to go to a place of worship and pointed out that this was the moral foundaton stone of the national well-being—a fact realised by everyone. This was only one of our many duties to God, as was also the combining of the affairs of Church and State.

Education was another pelank in the platform, and the hope of attaining a position as a first nation in the world with regard to the education and well being of the people of the Dominion was an edorado; such, perhaps, as would not be realised in our time but which is surely being quckly advanced by the Forward Movement.

In opening his address the Rev. Capt. R. Pearson said it was a fine thing to have such a man as the first minister of the Province so vitally interested in this work. It showed o all that the movement was something which was gripping the lives of the world at large both high and low. Civics or matters of State had no right to be thus apart. They should be equaly in everybody's life, and should be more unified tha even as at present.

The Church had been criticised that it had failed in its duty to the people. Criticism was good in that it often is the means of bringing re-adjustments, and this factor had had brought about this movement which was scheduled to make the church the greatest force for good and for the overthrow of evil. Nothing had ever arisen which could take the place of the church today.

Nothing can hold back the mission of making the name of Christ known throughout the world. The church was asking today that the people as a dominion rally round her and as a fitting thank offering give the support which it is necessary to provide to carry on the work properly which God intended should be done by that organisation.

During the war all the heads of all the churches had assisted in every way, but the credit had gone to the individual rather than to the church as an organisation. The church of Christ in Canada should be the basis of our national greatness and only by a movement such as this would he church ever be able to confront every difficulty, which is surely the goal to be aimed at.

The matter of supplying of ministers was dealt with and the speaker showed that only by the assistance which this movement aimed to give could the religious orders be made so self-supporting as to attract men and make their remuneration adequate, and thus to advance christianity and the uplift of humanity in general.

The Forward Movement continues to gather momentum and as the financial campaign connected therewith draws near, the practical interest of laymen of all churches in the work of their denominations will receive the "purse test." A westerner has set the pace for all Canada by subscribing $50,000 to the Methodist forward movement. The donor is J. H. Ashdown of Winnipeg.

During the afternoon Barnby's arrangement of the Gloria in Excelsis from Mozart's 12th mass was rendered in a very creditable manner by a missed choir, with Mrs. B. N. Fraser at the piano.

WILL INFLUENZA PLAGUE VISIT DISTRICT AGAIN

The provincial board of health has issued the following statement to the press with requests for its publication:

Some twenty-five cases tentatively diagnosed by the local physicians as influenza have already been reported to the department of health, most of them being in four or five families residing about twenty miles south-east of Lacombe.

In view of the possibilty of this disease becoming epidemic in this provincial board of health has from time to time circularised the various local health officials throughout the province on this question.

According to advice from time to time received by this through the dominion health authorities at Ottawa, or directly from Chicago New York or other American cities, the disease would appear to be of a mild type, from which, if the individual attacked exercises reasonable care, the results are not serious. Pneumonia and other complications are usually the result of lack of care or thoughtlessness.

There is no reason for alarm or panic. The plain fact is that f ach individual will accept his responsibilitr and exercise reasonable care, we will in the main get better results if the disease becomes epidemic, than by relying too much upon the aid that may be received, or that can possibly be received from or rendered by, the ordinary public health agencies.

There is merit in the standing advice of the medical officer of health for a leading eastern city to its citizens, viz.:—"When you are threatened by the disease take a hot bath, use laxatives, go to bed and stay there until otherwise advised by your physician."

People today were therefore a different nature today to those

We are sorry to learn that W. E. Zinkan is under the weather with a cold thi week and hope to se him around again in a few days.

THE SALE OF SOME BUFFALO

The proposal of the Dominion Government to sell one thousand buffalo bulls from the herd in the park here in an illustration of how a project sentimental and philanthropic in its inception may become profitable. The federal member for this riding, W. J. Blair, who takes a keen interest in the park pointed out on a recent visit to the east that in going into the business of buffalo breeding it had been fully proved that the tamily builded better than was supposed. In 1908 the opportunity to purchase 600 buffalo from a rancher in the State of Montana, who had made his hobby the preservation of an animal that was formerly the chief provider for the aborigines of the west was submitted to the Department of the Interior. After some negotiations the purchase was effected at the price of $250 per head A national park was set aside here for the preservation of the animals in as nearly as possible a natural state, but at the time the only idea was to save from extinction an animal deeply associated with the history of the North American continent. By now, however, we find that the original herd has thrived so well that it has increased in approximater eleven years to almost 5,000. Now the Department of the Interior has available 1,000 bulls which can be disposed of without endangering the prospects of posterity, and it is estimated that they will bring prices that will more than meet the original cost of the herd and all that has since been expended for care and when the animals could not get a living from the land.

The proposed sale will fix a market value for the buffalo for commercial purposes in a way that no sale of the past has done. The buffalo hide today s enormously valuable as a result of the increase in fur value which have taken place in the last quarter of a century The meat itself should undoubtedly command a high foo value among the epicures of this continent. A third item is the heads, which when mounted have ornamental uses for large edifices. Speaking generally a marketted buffalo represents value undreamed of in pioneer days of the west.

Our park has, however developed other sources of national usefulness, for experiments in cross breeding with cattle have been made, and progress is not wanting in showing the production of a specie of crossbred animal which may eventually become a paying commercial proposition although this is as yet still in the experimental stages.

Again, our park is a source of supply for any Canadian municipality which desires one or more of these animals for local park purposes. The purchase of the Montana herd in 1908 has most assredly more than justified itself.

SEED ORDERS AND SUPPLIES.

The new seed catalogues are coming in with lists of novelties and staple varieties attractively advertised and one gets much enjoyment in turning over the pages of one of one of these, and mentally picturing the fine crops one will have next summer. Often, however the catalogue is put aside nothing being done till spring, when it may be too late to get what is desired. The quantity available of the best strains is sometimes small, hence it is important to order early before stocks are exhausted.

There is a great difference between the best and the poorest strains. The stock of the best has been rigidly selected so that a large proportion will come true to type, whereas the stock which has not been kept up may have a bad mixture of types, and the resulting crop is sure to be unsatisfactory. This is of so much importance that with a crop like the cauliflower where the strain counts for so much, pays the gardener to always hold over what seed he does not use until another year, and thus be sure of having a good strain on hand. This method will not serve, however, as the seed loses its germinating power very rapidly, and should be purchased every year. If a grower has had good success in one season from a certain kind or source, the safest plan is to order from the same source for another year.

Sometimes novelties have not apparently been compared care fully with the older varieties before being offered for sale, as they often do not prove to be as reliable. While it may be interesting to test out new seed it is well not to spend too much along this line until such lines have been tested at an experimental station.

Another advantage of ordering early is that one can test the germinating power of the seed before spring so that there will be time to order again if the germination is poor. Often seed is ordered so late that after it is sown and the plants do not come up there is no time to order again and one loses the crop. When there is a shortage of many kinds of supplies, as there is at present, it is very desirable to order early the material needed for next season's operations.

My! but that old stork has had a busy time, what?

Don't you forget to save that date for the U.F.A. fourth annual concert and dance—Thursday Feb. 19th.

We are in receipt of a letter in regard to a hockey matter, but as the sender omitted to sign their name to the same it is held over until we get this. Not necessarily for publication but as an evdence of good faith

Jack Sutherland and his wife spent the week end in Edmonton.

We learn that Miss Helen Connors will shortly be leaving for Vancouver where she will train in the nursing profession.

H. P. May was in the city on business this week.

Carl Brunker returned home last week after a long absence. He was the guest of Mrs W. Gano on Sunday.

Her many friends will all be glad to know that Mrs. H. J. Hoegh is continuing to improve in health.

Mr and Mrs Labonte arrived home on Saturday and are now in residence on their farm.

We are sorry to learn that Mrs T. Lake is suffering from an attack or nephritis and express hopes for her speedy recovery.

Charlie Isteed left t on Sunday's train for a short holiday at McCreary, Man. and Yorkton, Sask. at both of which he will visit relatives. No doubt the committee meetings round the hardware stove will lack a little of their vigor for a short time.

The Farmer's dance which will be held on the 19th of this month promises to be as great a success as this event has always proved. A departure is being made from last year's arrangements in that the good "housewives" are going to provide the supper themselves, so the success of this part of the big doings is assured.

His many friends will regret to learn that Murray Pawling is sick in hospital i Edmonton.

Our local butcher has a dandy quarter of buffalo meat in cut this week and this should prove quite a treat for the epicures.

Jimmy Tansley is now under the doctor's care. He was taken sick last Saturday.

Miss Rita Love was a visitor to Irma at the week end.

SUBSCRIBE for THE STAR.

C. H. Rowe was a business visitor to the city at he beginning of the week.

We learn that Mrs Blinn is still in a poor state of health and wish her a quick recovery.

The annual convention of the Alberta branches of the Imperial Oil Co. is being held this week in Edmonton, and our local manager W. E Bowen is in attendance.

Mrs Tom Sherdan arrived home on Saturday from her stay in Edmonton.

We have to record this week the passing away of Phiomene Boudreau, who died on Thursday last after a very short illness. Small Bros. conducted the funeral on Saturday.

The depot was the scene of some excitement on Saturday last, when one of the colored porters on No. 2 was given into the keping of Consable Holtsbaum upon the arrival of the train. The nigger had proved a regular man chwer by all accounts but his victims would lay no charge and he returned to the city on the night train.

W. S. Goulet left last week end for La Porte, Ind., on business connected with the Advance Rumely Tractor Co.

Editing a newspaper is a real pleasant business—if you only understand it.

If it contains many adverts. the suberibers claim they take too much space.

If the ads. are scarce people claim it is unpopular and do not want it.

If we attend church regularly they say we do it for effect.

If we stay away from church they say we are heathenish.

If we accept an invitation to a wedding they say we are only invited to write it up.

If we are on the streets much they say that we neglect our business.

If we avoid spending time on street they say we don't hustle around after news.

If we reject a long-winded communication, its author becomes furiously enraged and discontinues his paper.

If we publish long communications, some will say that we lack dicretion and put it in to fill up.

If we omit jokes they say we are a poor miserable fossil.

If we print an occasional joke they say that we must be getting into our second childhood and should retire.

When we were single they all said we were too helpless to get married.

When we are married they say it is a sad thing for our poor wife.

If we publish a man who has brought disgrace on his family the friends of that family never forgive us.

If, out of the goodness of our heart, we decline to say anything on the subject, the man's enemies are disappointed and we are branded as white-livered cowards.

Dear reader—We are liable to receive these raps and many more, but we are always ready to receive visitors (especially if they bring in their subscription), whether accompanied by dog or not.

Of course we do not claim that there is any work in running a newspaper, but

Why everybody knows it's a snap, so what can we say.
